Hi Everyone,

Ex. 5 - Deliberative Process

To help to better understand the Metro-Denver winter time inversions, cold temperatures, and road sanding effects, I have asked one of Region 8's monitoring folks to pull together the top ten monitoring values for the last five years for PM₁₀ monitoring data from:

A.) The Alsup monitoring location (this is the monitor recommended by the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment, or CDPHE) that was used by FHWA for the background monitoring data in the PM₁₀ hot-spot modeling for the SDEIS, FEIS, and draft information for the ROD.

B.) Two other monitor locations nearby the Alsup monitor location (Welby & Denver Visitors Center).

As can be seen in the table below, 9 of the 10 highest PM₁₀ monitoring values for the Alsup monitor location happen in the three months (December, January, February) that were considered in the I-70 East hot-spot modeling protocols. True, one of the top 9 high values was on November 28th, but that is right next to December.

Thoughts?

Thanks!

Tim:

Below are ranked top values for the Welby, Alsup Elementary and Denver Visitor Center monitors. I did not include other monitors in the urban area (CAMP, La Casa, Denver Animal Shelter, Tri-county Health) because they have less than daily data (generally 1 in 6 days or 1 in 3 days), have incomplete data over the 2011-2016 time frame (3 or fewer years) and/or have lower values than the ones shown.

The locations are shown below the table.

RE: I-70 East Project - Request to FHWA for Additional Information and Preliminary Comments/Observations

Hi Everyone,

Ex. 5 - Deliberative Process

The FHWA/CDOT February 13, 2013 draft air quality modeling protocol is attached and I would point you to page 5, under the heading “Season(s) to be modeled” which notes:

Referred to FHWA

Also, I would note that same language for the “Season(s) to be modeled” appears on page 3 of the Final EIS (FEIS) air quality modeling protocol.
